ator Montague on the other. Senator Garrett, urging the adoption of the "watcher" amendment, referred humor-ously to the Second Congressional District, where, he said, such a provision might prove of use.

Resents Allusion.
"It comes with poor grace from a Senator on this floor," replied Senator Montague, with some warmth, "to offer any reflection on the Second Congressional District. It is possible that we may not have been so fortunate as other sections of the State in some of our recent elections, but I can at least make the statement that there has been none of the disgraceful vote-selling which has occurred in other districts in the Second. We have a little better class of men there."

Having to a point of personal privilege, Senator Garrett assured the Senator from Portsmouth that no reflection on his district was meant, and that he made the remark to which objection was made in a spirit of fun.

Later, Senator Saunders, in arguing for the adoption of the modified "watcher" amendment, referred to a general way to election abuses, which, he said, the amendment would go a long way in curing. In one election to which he did not care to refer, he said, persons were permitted to vote whose legal residence was in New York.

Senator Montague leaped to his feet with a protest. "I decline to sit here and be subjected to this fire," said the angry Senator from the city on the Elizabeth. "I know to what the Senator refers. He is alluding to the elections in my district. I know that there are abuses there, and that in some cases men who had long been dead were voted. I don't know how that have happened unless the commissioners utterly scorned their duty.
But I do know this, I had nothing to do with it; had no knowledge of it, and as far as I know, the rest of the committee knew nothing of it."

No Allusion Intended.
Senator Saunders assured the Portsmouth lawmaker that nothing was further from his mind than to im-pugn the honor of the Second District. He did not even have it in his mind when making his allusion to election abuses. As for the Senator personally, he said, no breath of suspicion attached to his conduct, and he would be the last man to believe him capable of improper election practices.

The amendment was submitted to a vote and adopted. The vote on the bill was as follows:
Ayes—Blanks, Bowers, Brock, Crockett, Cummings, Drewry, Early, Edmondson, Fletcher, Folkes, Garrett, Gayle, Gravatt, Harman, Hart, Hobbs, Holt, Lester, Mapp, Moncure, Montague, Paul, Rinehart, Rison, Saunders, Smith, Tavenner, Thornton, Tucker, Watkins, West—22.
Noes—Caton, Echols, Parr, Royall, Sewell, Walker—6.

The Moncure game bill, which was a special order, was called and partly read by the clerk, when adjournment at 2 o'clock intervened.

Bills Passed.
The following bills, in addition to those already mentioned, were taken out of their regular order, upon motion, and passed:

Requiring definite appropriations to be made for the support of certain departments and commissions of the State government and all revenues accruing to such departments, etc., be-covered in the Treasury. Patron, Senator Gayle.

maintenance of railings on the cause-ways of all wharves in the Commonwealth, at which passengers embark or disembark from steamers.
To prevent the trapping of foxes in the county of Culpeper except during the months of November and December.
To amend section 3563 of the Code so as to make the same apply to automobiles, motorcycles and similar vehicles.
To amend the game laws of the county of New Kent, Charles City, James City, Surry and Prince George.
To make an appropriation to provide for the relief of needy Confederate veterans, who are not eligible to become inmates of the Soldiers' Home because of suffering from cancerous affections or contagious diseases.
To amend and re-enact section 1307
of the Code.
To authorize the Auditor of Public Accounts to pay certain claims due the treasurer of Elizabeth City county by the State, which were refused payment on account of certain clerical errors.
To require taxes levied on dogs to be put upon the same tax bill with taxes levied on personal property.
Reducing the commissions of examiners of record.
To amend and re-enact section 113
of the Code.
To authorize the school board of the county of James City to convey what is known as the Hickory Neck Academy lot, with the building thereon, to the trustees for the congregation of Hickory Neck Episcopal Church, of Blissfield Parish, James City county.
To require the State Board of Education to ascertain and report the amount paid by patrons of public schools for adopted school books.
To amend the act establishing a public free school on the grounds of the Prison Association at Laurel, Hen-rico county.

Rocky Mount to appropriate from the town revenues a sum not exceeding $5,000 for the construction of a high school building in that town.
To allow boards of supervisors in counties to employ a competent accountant when they deem it necessary in the settlement of any accounts.
To amend the act incorporating the town of Branchville, Southampton county.
To amend the charter of the city of Norfolk.

To authorize and empower the board of supervisors of Accomac county to levy a tax for the support and maintenance of a public library.
Amending an act empowering boards of supervisors to enact special and local legislation to protect public roads and bridges from obstruction and injury.

MAJOR COULLING DEAD
Mustered in Virginia Regiments at Outbreak Major W. M. Coulling, United States Army, died Monday at the Army and Navy General Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark. He was at one time engaged in the grain business in Richmond, and had many friends in this city. Major Coulling when a captain in the regular army was assigned at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War to Camp Lee at Richmond, and had charge of mustering into the service of the government the four Virginia regiments which assembled here and saw service during that war. He served as a colonel of volunteers throughout the war, returning to regular service after. For the past three years he had been United States depot quartermaster at St.
Louis. On account of ill health he retired from active service last fall. The interment will be made at the National Cemetery at Arlington.

Here and There in the Legislature

Members of the Senate Committee on Finance say that the Byrd Tax Commission bill came to them in such condition, its various parts not harmonizing so that its intent can be comprehended, that they can do nothing with it. No one expects that any tax reform legislation is possible at this session.

The bill establishing a bureau of mines was reported back to the House yesterday morning by its Committee on Mining and Agriculture, just as it came from the Senate, with this Wendenburg amendment still appended. It has been found to be satisfactory by the labor element. This bill is likely to be passed to-day or to-morrow.

The House Finance Committee, at its meeting yesterday morning, reported favorably the bill to provide for the purchase by the State of half of the Ford Hotel property. The Government is to repair the buildings now standing so that they can be used temporarily for State offices. It is understood that the Governor has promised to see the financing through.

The conference committee on the general appropriation bill met last night and began its work. It could not finish its labors, and adjourned to meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon. It is understood that the conference found many points of disagreement between the Senate and House bills.

After leading it down with amendments which render it all but meaningless, the Senate Committee on General Laws yesterday reported the Fitzhugh amending bill with the recommendation that it do not pass.
The amendments provide that the act shall not apply to licensed bars, hotels, or summer resorts having on their premises a mineral spring. The original bill only included licensed saloons, so there is nothing left of it.
